

Kindbody Live: Virtual Event

Navigating the Realities of Infertility

In honor of Infertility Awareness Month, join Dr. Seungdamrong and Olympic swimmer Katie Hoff for an intimate conversation about the physical and emotional endurance of the fertility journey.

When

Tuesday
April 21st 2026
4:00 P.M. ET

Hosted by

Dr. Aimee Seungdamrong,
Reproductive Endocrinologist
Kindbody

RSVP

This April, in honor of National Infertility Awareness Week (April 19–25), we're celebrating growing families and the diverse experiences that shape family-building journeys. The theme #MoreThan reminds us that infertility is more than a diagnosis —it's about the whole person.

Compassionate Support for Infertility

Infertility affects many people in profound ways, and the journey can feel isolating. This post offers compassionate, practical guidance on how to support someone navigating fertility challenges.

Read the Full Post

Meet Dr. Aimee Seungdamrong

Dr. Seungdamrong has over 12 years of medical experience and serves as an Assistant Professor at Rutgers Medical School. She is passionate about providing exceptional care to every patient.

Learn More

Kindbody Info Session

Get your questions answered and explore your options with Dr. Fahimeh Sasan. This month's topic is "Paths to Parenthood," a discussion about family-building options. Join us on April 9 at 3 P.M. ET.

RSVP Here

KindStories:
Angelis Hernandez

"We began the journey to this treatment with ups and downs. On our second attempt, thanks to God and Kindbody, with their kind treatment and great doctors and nurses, my miracle named Emmanuel was achieved. I am grateful to you and your support."

Read More

Contact us at any time.
employeebenefits@kindbody.com

